It doesn't matter who you are, this site has something for you. If you are just plain curious, a whole new world awaits you. If you are a student looking for information about the types of communal living, in Israel and around the world, you will find it here - or details on how to find it. If you are a member of a commune or an intentional community, the vast variety of styles of communal living around the world will give you both inspiration and encouragement.

And if you haven't found what you're looking for on our website, we suggest you try the following addresses:

For Information on:

Intentional Communities Around the World - www.ic.org
In Israel - The Kibbutz Movement - www.kibbutz.org.il - (so far, mainly in Hebrew)

Of course, you are very welcome to contact us directly, at:

Some Handy Hints:

- Don't forget to visit our FAQ (Frequently Asked Questions) page here
- Be daring and take a look at the Hebrew version of our site here

Important to all Communitarians

Thanks to the Federation of Intentional Communities, there is an Online Communities Directory website here ! This is a free searchable database of intentional communities around the world. You can browse through the alphabetical community list or search for communities based on location, keyword, and various aspects of community living that are important to community seekers.

Go to it!
